ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am very grateful to the many people who have enabled me to pursue the work I love. I am especially indebted to all those friends and family who kept me afloat through the difficult times by providing the support I needed to continue working. Special thanks to Dr. Helena Buffery and Dr. Derek Flitter, my supervisors, for their suggestions and comments, as well as their patience. They kept everything running smoothly throughout the whole process.

There are a number of people without whom this thesis would not have been possible. This dissertation is dedicated to them: Juan Carlos Rodríguez, Carlos Enríquez del Árbol, Ángela Olalla, José Luis Moreno Pestaña and Alicia Relinque. Special thanks to Carlos and Pepe for their wonderful and loyal understanding, as well as their unconditional friendship and support. Special thanks also to my brother, Julio Bellón, for that wonderful Christmas holiday, close to the completion of the PhD, during the nightmarish finale. Thanks similarly go to the campus library, which provided excellent service. In addition, I want to thank the Hispanic Studies Department, its director, Dr. Trevor Dadson, and its outstanding faculty. Thanks to the Postgraduate Office and Michelle Cullen, and to my fellow postgraduate students. Individual thanks go to Dr. Conrad James, David García Vidal, Humberto Campos, Edward Robinson (sic) and Marta Simó for their moral support and invaluable friendship. Very special thanks to Marta, who undertook voluntarily (!) the tedious and meticulous task of the proof reading. Finally, I am grateful to my father, my mother and my sister, Flora, for their continuing support and involvement in all my endeavours.
